INTRODUCTION

The U thinks and acts globally by increasing opportunities for students and faculty to engage in international study, teaching, research, and service.

—University Core Value #5

Learning Abroad reports annually on the U's efforts and progress towards this value. The following report examines Learning Abroad data, data from other University of Utah Departments, and Institutional data.

LIMITATIONS

This report covers specific programs at the U and is not representative of all international activities at the University. Furthermore, due to cross-listed programs, dual majors, traveling programs, and other individual factors, some statistics will exceed the total number of programs offered and the total number of students.

For more information, please contact Learning Abroad at 801-581-5849.

Thank you for your interest in Learning Abroad at the University of Utah!

Joseph Van Alstyne

BA in Japanese

It’s hard to understand how others feel when they come from foreign places for school and have to collaborate. ”

Jessica Arthurs

AMIDEAST Area & Arabic Language Studies in Jordan

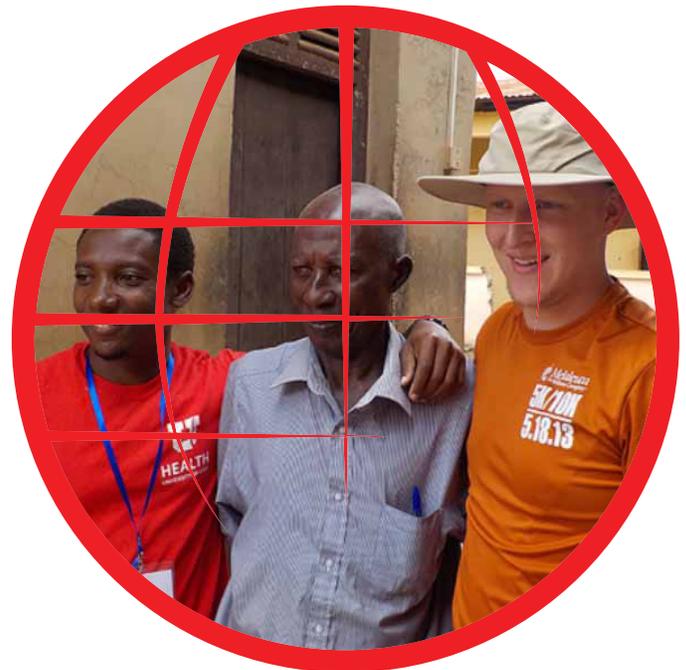

“ Studying abroad has been the most valuable experience of my undergraduate studies. It inspired me to seek more diversity in my education, network internationally, and push myself out of my comfort zone. ”

Tyrel Foster

MD in Medicine
